HUGHES TO GIVE BENEFIT PERFORMANCE FOR NAD

In response to the interest expressed last year in the Hughes Memorial Theatre's production of the "American Dream" with an all black cast, HMT decided to offer a major play written by a black playwright from black performers during the 1972-73 season.

With this goal in mind, Debbie Sonnenstrahl, as director, selected Lonne Elder's "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men."

Quoting the New York Times, producer Jerry Harbin has described Elder's work as a "remarkable play... Mr. Elder's theme of a man struggling for honesty in a world where honesty is not so much a luxury as an incongruity works wonderfully.
It is moving and realistic."

Because of the historic significance of the presentation, it was decided that there should be something special about the opening performance as well. The formal opening will be held at Gallaudet in the Auditorium on Thursday, February 22.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets will be for the benefit of Halex House, the NAD headquarters. Tickets are $15.

There will also be performances on Friday and Saturday evenings, February 23 and 24. Prices: $3.00 general admission and $2.00 with student discount.
For ticket information or to make reservations for the opening performance, contact Penny Renner at 835 or TTY 885.
